Linear feet shelf space occupied: 24 1/3
Approximate number of pages: 58,200
Approximate number of items: 29,100

Literary property rights in the unpublished writings of Henry S. Aurand are reserved to him during his lifetime, and thereafter to Evan Peter Aurand, II, and thereafter to whomsoever he shall designate or to the United States.

By agreement with the donor the following classes of documents will be withheld from research:

1. Papers relating to the family and private business affairs.
2. Papers relating to the family and private business affairs of other persons who had correspondence with General Aurand.
3. Papers relating to investigations of individuals or to appointments and personnel matters.
4. Papers containing statements made by or to General Aurand in confidence unless in the judgement of the Director of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Library the reason for the confidentiality no longer exists.
5. All other papers which contain information or statements that might be used to injure, harass, or damage any living person.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The papers of General Henry S. Aurand span the years 1873-1967. The bulk of the material was originated during his military career from 1915 to 1952.

Aurands' specialty was military logistics--the science of moving, supplying, and quartering troops. The collection should therefore have special significance for research on logistical problems and management. However, because he had many different types of military assignments and his papers chronicle the many activities in which he was involved, the collection could be useful for studies of such diverse topics as: the state of the United States' military forces between the two World Wars; the training and education of professional soldiers; Lend Lease; German prisoners of war; the use of black troops during World War II and their subsequent integration into the armed forces; conditions in China during and immediately after World War II, and problems in "closing out" the China Theater; disposal of military supplies in the Middle East; research and weapons development; universal military training; the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; and, certain foreign policy matters.

As a consequence of the many positions which he held, General Aurand corresponded with several prominent individuals. His papers include messages to and from such people as Franklin Roosevelt, Henry Stimson, Averell Harriman, Robert Patterson, Kenneth Royall, Bernard Baruch, Harry Hopkins, and Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar Bradley, Floyd Parks, J. Lawton Collins, and Lucius Clay.

General Aurand was a prolific author and speaker both during and after his military career. The many articles, speech drafts, and newspaper columns found in the Aurand Papers frequently reflect his thinking and attitudes concerning numerous topics.

A key to expeditious research in the Aurand collection is a proper understanding of the broad chronological arrangement the General used in preserving most of his papers. For example, the material concerning his military career is arranged according to the succession of assignments he held while in the Army. Such arrangement necessitated the placement of similar folder and subject titles in separate segments of the collection.

It should be noted that the series pertaining to General Aurand's military career is divided into two subseries, each having its own chronological arrangement. The first segment concerns his non-educational military assignments, and the second group is related to his educational assignments with the Army from 1911 to 1940.

The Papers of Aurand's retirement years, his Personal and Family Files, and the Article, Speech, and Book File also maintain a broad chronological arrangement. Folder and subject titles similar to those listed elsewhere are again found in the Retirement Years series. The Article, Speech, and Book File contains material originated throughout Aurand's military career and retirement years. The Memorabilia series is arranged in a rough chronological order.

It should be noted that this finding aid is not a precise guide to the location of particular types of documents. For example, General Aurand's family correspondence is interspersed throughout the collection despite the existence of the Personal and Family Files series. Groups of papers designated as being one of the three major types of correspondence--official, personal, or special--frequently contain correspondence which might appear to belong to one of the other categories. Also, subject, chronological, alphabetical, and correspondence files do not necessarily contain all the material which at first glance logically should be included within the grouping. Because of the collection's arrangement, therefore, a working knowledge of the topic and/or individuals being studied and an examination of the biographical information on General Aurand will facilitate research in the Aurand Papers.

AURAND, HENRY: Papers

Accession: A75-27

Processed by: MJP

Date completed: 4/9/75

This accretion consists of three binders containing interviews with General Aurand conducted by Major William O. Morrison, Jr., Command & General Staff College, on the following dates: 5-6 April 1974; 21-22 April 1974; and 3-7 May 1974. These interviews span General Aurand's lifetime, including information pertaining to his childhood and retirement, as well as to his military career. Answers to questions asked during the interviews apparently contain material from Major Morrison's research, as well as that supplied by General Aurand's answers.

AURAND, HENRY: Papers

Accession: A75-27/1

Processed by: MJP

Date Completed: 5/14/75

This addition to the papers of General Aurand consists of a third revision of a paper entitled "A Statistical Study of the Class of 1915 United States Military Academy", published in April 1975. The study was compiled, published, and distributed by General Aurand.
